User comment: If I cannot come in on voice, can you please provide this comment: This is Kira Wattenburg King the owner of the lots in Greenville where we are rebuilding the Way Station. At no time have I ever been approached to build public buildings including the community center on my privately owned land. I encourage the previous public comment person to get their facts straight before continuing to embarrass themselves with false information and I welcome an open conversation directly with me to confirm. As I understand it, the land that has been proposed for the community center is now owned by the Indian Valley Community Services district. These facts can easily be ascertained prior to proposing misinformation in public.
