

You can see in the Jean-Baptiste-Simeon Chardin painting how there are numerous examples of lined up objects within the rule of thirds, the top of the jug aligns with top horizontal line and sits butted up to the vertical line, even the top of the funny little pot on the far left side sits on the bottom horizontal line. Where the lines cross are power points.